The Razer Orochi V2 appears against the silhouette of a many-headed serpent.

With a katana slice, the mouse explodes from a rock...

...revealing its Ambidextrous form factor.

Snakes wrap around it, turning into silk and cherry blossom petals—

Emphasizing its ultra-lightweight design.

A robotic samurai hand holds the mouse in 3 styles to show its universal design.

It teleports through various environments to show off its portability.

Its lightning-fast wireless performance matches the speed of a katana unsheathing.

It races through the city and stops in a Japanese dojo.

In the background, the seasons change to illustrate its 950-hour battery life.
